

Year 5 Class CAS Project: Collaboration with FaithActs

Our class CAS project, Turning Pages, ran from 10 May to 6 August, aiming to foster a love for reading in children and improve their grasp of the English language through storytelling sessions. We decided to work with FaithActs as their vision to meet community needs and alleviate social problems aligned with ours. We also hoped to serve more vulnerable children to develop them not just academically but holistically, honing their creativity, improving their attention span, building confidence in expressing opinions, and strengthening their core values to better equip them for society. This experience has been profoundly rewarding, as we witnessed the children's growth through each session and got to know them better. We learned to engage meaningfully with them and understand how best to work together as a team in achieving our aims of overall development, building our confidence at the same time.
